About this organisation

For more than seventy years Diab has been at the leading edge of foam core materials and sandwich technology development with successful projects all over the world. Our excellent track record proves the quality and reliability of our products and services, providing security and proof of performance few others can offer.

Every application and manufacturing method has its special demand on the material used. To be able to get the most out of your product, Diab offers the widest range of core materials and grades with unique properties that will suit the needs of applications today and tomorrow, including PET, PVC, PEI, PES foam cores and balsa.
